YOUR VOTE COUNTS

It is that time of year again when we ask the RANWW membership to exercise their right to vote by electing the 2018-2019 RANWW Leadership team! The slate of candidates is excellent, with each potential candidate bringing their own skill set to the table. RANWW is regarded as one of the top associations within the state of Wisconsin. This strength is a direct result of past and present leadership that has been elected by YOU the RANWW membership!

Each member has a voice in what goes on within our Association, and voting is the avenue for that voice to be heard! I am asking each of you to educate yourselves on each potential candidate and then cast your vote for the candidate that best fits the RANWW vision and mission for its members.

You can participate by logging onto www.ranww.org anytime between July 15th - July 25th and cast your vote for ONE (1) treasurer candidate and THREE (3) director candidates. Each elected director will serve a three (3) year term.

Once logged onto the secure portion of the RANWW website, the access code for voting will be the same as your Matrix login. Results will be made available to the membership no earlier than July 26th and no later than July 30th.

Please Wire Me Your Money!

Protecting brokers and clients from wire transfer scams

In December 2015, the National Association of REALTORS® (NAR) sent out an urgent alert warning that criminals were hacking into the email accounts of real estate agents or other persons involved in transactions and using the information gained from the hack to dupe parties into fraudulent wire transfers. And we probably thought to ourselves that this scam was absolutely terrible, but we were relieved that it was not happening to those in our marketplace. Unfortunately, that is not the case. The FBI has reported three attempts to defraud Wisconsin title companies, brokers and their transaction parties during the past couple of months. This scam is right in our backyard — not just somewhere else. Click here for more information few reminders as we move into the summer season; online voting will begin on July 15th and will remain open until the 25th of July. The online voting system can be accessed by going to www.ranww.org and clicking on the voting banner at the top of the page; please login using your Matrix ID and password. Please cast one vote for the treasurer’s position and one vote for a director’s position; it’s your vote and your voice and we WANT to hear it! Just as we want to hear your voice we also would love to see you and learn more about you! How you say? VOLUNTEERING! We are currently in the process of putting together committees, task forces and recruiting potential leaders for next year and WE WANT YOU! We are a member driven association and without our member involvement we can’t continue doing what we do. Never volunteered; Not a problem, Volunteered in the past but haven’t been involved for a while; Not a problem, been involved forever and want to stay involved; Not a problem!

A Message from RANWW Treasurer

Greetings!

Give us a call, send us an e-mail, text or facebook message and let us know you’re willing and able!

Enjoy the summer everyone!
Gary – RANWW Treasurer

Millennials Are the ‘Renovation Generation’

Daily Real Estate News | Wednesday, June 13, 2018

Millennials aren’t turned off by home improvement projects. They are more likely than any other generation to remodel any part of their home, according to a HomeAdvisor’s 2018 True Cost Survey. Millennials are twice as likely as baby boomers to complete bathroom and kitchen remodeling projects. They are also more likely to build a deck or porch and paint a home’s exterior than other generations too.

Millennials, those born between 1980 and 1994, have completed the most home projects in the past 12 months—more than baby boomers, Generation X, or the silent generation, according to the study. However, baby boomers tend to outspend all generations in home improvement projects.

Nevertheless, “the millennial generation is becoming increasingly important” in the home improvement industry, notes Brad Hunter, HomeAdvisor’s chief economist. “Most millennials have had to compromise on the size and condition of their starter homes—with many purchasing older homes in need of repair just to be able to afford homeownership. Many of the millennials who did buy a home in the last few years are seeking to upgrade. But a lack of housing inventory, coupled with inflated home prices and rising mortgage rates, has them renovating their existing homes instead of selling and moving. Luckily, many have built up the equity to afford the cost of some improvements.”

More than half of the millennials surveyed say they want to move to a home with more space or to upgrade to a nicer home. But a lack of homes for sale is keeping them stuck in place.

As such, they’ve got big plans for their current home: 82 percent of millennials surveyed—the highest compared to other generations surveyed—say they plan to spend as much as they did in the last 12 months on home improvement projects next year. More than half of millennials say they expect to spend more than they did last year.

“With rapidly rising home values spurring sudden equity, young homeowners are making improvements to beautify and personalize their spaces,” according to the report.

Get to know the Director Candidates….

“I came into Real Estate in 2006 as a REALTOR® with Coldwell Banker Brenizer in Chippewa Falls and recently obtained my Broker’s License. I love to share my knowledge and do so by training our new agents in our office as well as hold several Technology meetings throughout the year. It truly makes me happy seeing others succeed in this industry. My family and I are lifelong residents of the Chippewa Valley and we take great pride in the Chippewa Falls community. I love to give back by volunteering. I’ve enjoyed being a Girl Scout Leader for my daughter’s troop for the past 6 years. I am a member and actress of the Wayward Players at the Heyde Center for the Arts since 2014. I’ve recently been leading a Grief Group to help support those during times of loss and love to participate in charitable races when I can. I look forward to working for you on the Board.”

I started my real estate career 6 years ago after selling my Transportation Business. I wanted to help people achieve their dreams of owning their own home and investing in their future. I have lived in northern Wisconsin for over 30 years and have always considered Wisconsin my home. I am married with 4 children and 5 step-children. I am your basic northern Wisconsin boy. I love hunting with my dog Rock, fishing, camping, gardening and smoking meat. I am also very involved in the Men’s Ministry at my church. I believe that if you “do the right thing” the reward will follow. I enjoy the camaraderie of my team members each day. We try to help each other and our clients/customers in a manner that is moral and ethical.

SOLD SIGNS
Can a broker put up a sold sign before the closing? As a listing broker, the broker has done this before when all contingencies were removed from the offer to purchase and the seller gave permission. Is it okay?

If the information on the sign suggests to the public that the property is sold, the practice is arguably misleading advertising in violation of both state license law and the Code of Ethics. Wis Admin. Code requires that advertising not be false, deceptive or misleading. Article 12 of the Code of Ethics requires REALTORS® to be careful to present a true picture in their advertising and representation to the public. Before the closing, it is more appropriate to use a sign or sign riders that say "contract pending," "accepted offer" or other language that is more reflective of the actual status of a transaction awaiting closing.

I am going to give you the inside track on something our company has uncovered during our close to 20 years in business… home inspections are very “light” on inspecting the two most expensive items in your home – heating and air conditioning systems (referred to as “HVAC”).

We review thousands upon thousands of home inspections per year. Almost every one has a disclaimer that indicates that the inspector is not a licensed heating and cooling contractor and does not have the proper equipment to evaluate the internal components of the system. The more thorough inspectors run a minimum of tests such as a carbon monoxide test (heating) and test temperature differentials (cooling), but they are not equipped to see if an air conditioner is leaking, has adequate refrigerant levels, or has a restriction in the refrigerant lines. They are not able to see if there is a crack in the heat exchanger or if the burner elements are properly functioning. Often, the inspector will just note that the system "appears" to be functioning (it turns on) but then refers the customer to have it further evaluated by a heating and cooling contractor. And oftentimes, this directive is ignored.

We decided to try and steer the industry in another direction and introduced the Seller HVAC Pre-Inspection Program. Rather than pay to add heating and cooling coverage to the home during the listing, the seller can pay a qualified heating and cooling contractor roughly the same amount to have the heating and cooling systems properly evaluated. We work with any service company, and they submit written feedback on their findings. Once the system passes inspection, we issue Seller HVAC coverage FOR FREE and give a written guarantee that no heating and cooling claims will be denied due to pre-existing conditions. Even if the evaluation is done during the “off” season for the unit (i.e. inspecting air conditioners in winter), as long as the service company has performed the tests they are able to safely perform, we still extend the guarantee.

This is a HUGE win for your customers – both buyers and sellers. The seller now has a written guarantee that their home’s most expensive systems are pre-certified (an added selling feature of the home), and the buyer has added protection after the sale, even if an item fails in the first 30 days in the home.

We are the only company that provides this benefit. Reach out to me today to find out how this program is adding protection to the home sale transaction and can benefit YOU in your business.
